GOVERNOR HYDE LIKES OUR FILMS

WANTED TO "STAY A WHILE" AT TENT AT SEDALIA.

THURSDAY BIGGEST DAY

A Number of Prominent Men of the the State Were in the Party With the Governor.

Governor A. M. Hyde and his party visited Thursday the Nodaway County tent at the State Fair at Sedalia, in which "Agriculture in Nodaway County" is being shown. Members of the party wanted to go on after a few minutes, but the governor said, "I am not ready to go yet. I like this exhibit and I want to stay a while." And stay a while he did, according to Geo. A. Pickens, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, who writes of the incident.

Among the members of the governor's party were A. C. Dingley, president of the State Fair Association; W. D. Smith, secretary of the Fair Association; Mr. Milligan, C. D. Bellows and George Arnold, directors of the fair; Senator Robertson; S. D. Thompson, state treasurer; L. J. Hedrick of the state grain committee; Jewell Mayes, secretary of the state board of agriculture; G. B. Adams.

Mr. Pickens writes that Thursday was the biggest day at the fair from the standpoint of attendance, in spite of the fact that it was very hot. Hundreds saw the Nodaway County show.

Posteards with pictures of the film tent at the fair are being distributed at the tent. The picture is the same that was carried in the Democrat-Forum yesterday. Along with the picture the cards have the following lines printed on them:

"Nodaway County exhibit at Sedalia State Fair, 1922. Made in motion pictures. A trip over Nodaway County. See the fine farming land, homes, crops and live stock. More enjoyable than seeing a display of farm products. The only exhibit of the kind ever made in the United States. Produced by the Maryville Chamber of Commerce."

Jack Holt and family are camping in the white city at the state fair grounds. He was at the tent at the time the governor and his party dropped in.

WOUNDED MEN CAN RECEIVE CERTIFICATES FROM ADJUTANT

This Information is Contained in the Red Cross Handbook, Miss Turner Says

The local chapter of the Red Cross has received word that former service men who were wounded in service and have not received a wound certificate may now secure them by making application to the Adjutant General, of the War Department.

Miss Betty Turner's instructions say that the Red Cross handbook "contained the statement that no application is necessary for wound certificates which are issued by the War Department to all officers, enlisted men, field clerks and other members of authorized military establishment who were wounded in service during the World War. We are now advised that the work of preparing and issuing these certificates has been completed, and that some of the certificates have been returned for better address. If, therefore, any ex-service man has failed to receive a wound certificate to which he is entitled he may now make informal inquiry over his own signature concerning the delay, addressing his inquiry to the Adjutant General, War Department, Washington, D. C."

UNLOAD BRICK AT DUNN AND NORMAL

CORNER IS TO BE CUT OFF SOON.

IS A PERILOUS TURN

Corner of Fourth and Dunn Also to Be Made Round and Crossing Made Smooth.

The second carload of brick for the laying more pavement at the corner of Dunn street and Normal avenue and for repairing the Fourth street crossing over the Wabash freight spur is being unloaded at these two points today. Mayor F. P. Robinson said this morning that the city's street gang would begin the paving some time next week and that it would be completed by the opening of the College, September 11.

The corner of Dunn and Normal has for years been a bad one for motorists. It is on the most traveled route to the State Teachers College. The streets are not wide and the corner is an abrupt one. In addition to this the grade from the west makes it a perilous place in case a car from that direction is coming at a rapid gait. Many a person's heart has been in his throat on meeting some one at the corner, although there have never been many accidents there.

Last spring the side walk at the southwest was laid in a part circle, giving ample room for cutting of the cornerand putting in more pavement to give more room for turn in street. The ground will be dug away by the street gang, a foundation put in and pavement laid to within some four or five feet of the new walk.

The corner of Fourth and Dunn streets will also be cut off some twenty feet and made round. With these two improvements it will be possible for a car to be driven to the College with considerably more ease and safety.

The crossing of Fourth street on the Wabash freight spur is to be repaired and made smooth. At present a car gets a lot of big jolts in going over the crossing.

The street gang is now working on First street. It will finish this street in a few days. One other small job is to be done and then the corner of Dunn and Normal.

DEFENDS THE WORK ON CODE

PRESIDENT SHARTELL SAYS GOOD WORK IS BEING DONE.

MANY DESIRE NO CHANGE

Convention President Says Persistent Propaganda is Being Put Out by Certain Interests.

(Written by J. S. Hubbard, Executive Secretary of the Missouri Press Association.)

Jefferson City, Aug. 25.

President Cassius M. Shartell of the Constitutional Convention spoke Friday night from the radio broadcasting station in the state capitol, giving an official message from the convention which was heard at stations all over the state. Special interest was taken in the speech at Sedalia, where the loud-speaking apparatus made it possible for the people at the State fair to hear him clearly.

Mr. Shartell revived the work of the convention from the time of its organization in May until the present briefly outlining its method of procedure and its accomplishments, which he considers commendable. The great changes in conditions since the onl constitution was enacted in 1875, the speaker said, made the work of the convention more complicated and the problems hard to solve, thus taking much time for thorough consideration. Answering some of the critics outside the convention, Mr. Shartell said:

"I believe the convention will be able to save the taxpayers of the state each year several times the cost of the convention in reduced expenses and taxes. I have made these suggestions for the reason that ever since the constitutional convention amendment was adopted there has been persistent propaganda circulated that we did not need a new or revised constitution, that the old one was good enough. This seems to have been continued since the convention met, by persistent propaganda that we are doing nothing. Many statements have been made that were untrue. No one objects to fair criticism, but criticism based upon a misstatement of facts is unfair to the convention and to the people who sent us here to do this work. I think it is very likely that this persistent propaganda is being put out by certain interests outside of the convention—the usual invisible government—in the hope that if the convention disturbs their hold on the state they may be able to defeat its ratification at the polls. Isn't it possible that the great trusts and combines, the large corporations, the professional office holders, the many commissions that are fastened upon the people to regulate their affairs, the vested grafts and many vested interests which are now having their own way are all satisfied with the existing constitution and the superstructure which they have built upon it, and do not desire that any part of it shall be disturbed? So the good citizen who is interested only in good government, the welfare of the many, not the few, should not be influenced by this propaganda until the work of the convention is finished and they can judge for themselves of its value to the people. The convention is doing good, sound work and I believe will revise the constitution in the interest of all of the people of the state so that Missouri may grow, not only in a material way, but in the development of an educated, intelligent citizenship."

The report of the Committee on Legislation, taken up by the convention sitting as the committee of the whole, has been under fire all the week, only minute changes have been made from the original draft submitted by the committee.

The important changes in the committee report from the old constitution consisted in a reduction of the biennial sessions of the general assembly from seventy to sixty days, the increasing of the pay of members from $5 to $10 per day and the limiting of clerical expenses of $400 per day in the assembly and $300 per day in the senate; limiting special sessions to thirty day at $10 per day and revising sessions to ninety days at $10 per day, and the method of filling vacancies where they occur within twenty days of the opening of the general assembly or during its sessions.

MEN MADE THREATS TO A FARM WOMAN

MEMBERS OF FAMILY WORKING IN SHOPS AT CONCEPTION.

VISIT FROM STRIKERS

Told Her to Get Her Husband and Others to Quit Working in Shops or Violence Would be Done.

While Mrs. Ike Owens and her family consisting of several young children were at home last evening, two miles southeast of Arkoe, two cars containing a number of men stopped at the place and made threats and terrorized Mrs. Owens.

They said that if her husband, her father and her brother-in-law did not quit working in the shops for the Great Western at Conception Junction, further violence might be done.

The men frightened Mrs. Owens. One of her young children went to a nearby home for help and Sheriff Steve A. Roach at Maryville was notified. Sheriff Roach and Deputy Sheriff Lee Atherton went to the place, but the men were all gone at that time.

The men in the cars were supposed to be strikers, living at Conception Junction. The woman's husband, Ike Owens, and her father, Henry Orick, and her brother-in-law, Clifford Ogier, have been working in the shops at Conception Junction since the shopmen's strike. They have been remaining at the shops during the night time.

It is reported there have been a number of cases where strikers have threatened and even injured strikebreakers or families of strikebreakers. But this is the first time since the strike that an occurrence of this kind has been reported in Nodaway County.

TAKING INTEREST IN HDQ. COMPANY

EX-SERVICE MEN ARE TALKING ABOUT SIGNING UP.

DEPENDS ON INSPECTOR

Rolf Rynor Optimistic Over Prospect of Securing a Band—Want 28 Veterans.

Ex-service men of Maryville and the surrounding community are beginning to take considerable interest in the organization of a headquarters company for the 128th Regiment of the Missouri National Guard of Maryville, according to Rolf Raynor, slated for first lieutenant of Battery C for which the required number of men has been secured. He says that one man has a group of about a dozen which he thinks will come in and that others are talking the matter among themselves.

Mr. Raynor says that these men will be signed up for the Battery C and that if the inspector is willing when he arrives to have a headquarters company organized they will at once be made a part of this organization and will step into the offices it provides. If the inspector is not in favor of a headquarters company at this place the men will not be required to serve. If they care to do so they will be allowed to drop out of the battery before they are sworn in.

Mr. Raynor, who is taking care of the business of organizing the battery in the absence of Captain Eugene A. Maynor who is out of town on business, says that considerable interest is also being shown in the organization of a band. The band would go to make up twenty-two or more of the required fifty for a headquarters company. He feels optimistic and says that he thinks that the required number for a band will be secured. With enough men for a band it will be necessary to secure but twenty-eight ex-service men to have the required number for the company. It is the plan to have the headquarters company, with the exception of the members of the band, composed entirely of ex-service men if possible and at any rate have all the offices and non-commissioned offices held by ex-service men.

GENERAL WALKOUT AT NEVADA, MO.

CHICAGO & ALTON TIEUP IN ILLINOIS CONTINUES.

MAY TAKE OVER ROADS

President Would Give All a Chance to Carry on First — Also Anthracite Mines.

Nevada, Mo., Aug. 26—A general walkout of railroad workers employed on the Missouri Pacific occurred at this important terminal point today because of injury to a firemen fired upon by an armed guard. Engineers firemen, brakemen, conductors, switchmen, callers and clerks joined in the walkout.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26. — Freight traffic on the Chicago and Alton railroad between here and Roodhouse, the division terminal is at a standstill today. Trainmen refused to work because of bombings at Roodhouse Thursday night. Additional United States marshals are stationed there.

St. Louis, Aug. 26.—Several passengers of a Chicago & Alton railroad local were marooned at Roodhouse, Ill., last night when the firemen walked out from the cabin, according to stories told today by persons arriving here by motor cars. The firemen quit because he said it was dangerous to travel on the road since the bombing of the roundhouse.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The president is falling back to his original plan for dealing with the dailroad situation. The railroads are to be given every opportunity to demonstrate their ability to maintain efficient service without unionized shopmen and if they fail the president will ask congress for specific authority to take over those roads that are unable to serve the public.

Senator Cummins of Iowa has a bill prepared today giving the president this power. It is to be introduced when the proper time comes.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Federal operation of anthracite coal mines and some of the railroads was considered at a White House conference last night between President Harding, Chairman Cummins of the senate interstate commerce committee, and Attorney General Daugherty.

Senator Cummins said after the conference that the anthracite operators and miners would be given one more opportunity to settle their differences.

"If there isn't a settlement in a few days," he said, "I will introduce a bill authorizing the government to operate the mines."

Likewise, he said, the railroads would be given a "reasonable" time in which to demonstrate their ability to furnish adequate service and that those unable to do so would be taken over.

It was indicated that consideration of these steps would not operate to interfere with proposed legislation now pending and designed to curb profiteering in coal.

The White House conference followed a survey of the whole situation at the regular cabinet meeting and the termination without result of the conference at New York between railroad executives and union officials. It was stated that the conference would be resumed.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The railroad system of the country are beginning to feel the pinch of the fuel shortage it was indicated today by an announcement from the federal fuel distinction that a large tonnage had been granted certain eastern roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wilmes and children and Joseph Kohmetscher returned to their home in Lawrence, Neb., this morning after a two weeks visit at the home of Henry Wilmes and family of near Bedison.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

THE SIGHT SEEING BUSINESS.

In former years when travelers visited a city or some noted region of natural beauty, and wished to observe the sights, they had to depend entirely on carriage and automobile drivers who would take them around individually, often at a high cost. A tourist was beset by a yelling crowd of hackmen when he landed at the railroad station, and often became bewildered and irritated by their shrieking appeals.

Some years ago enterprising people conceived the idea of providing big busses that would take travelers around in parties reducing the cost of such transportation, and pointing out the interesting sights more thoroughly and intelligently than many drivers would be able to do.

The method of sight seeing has become highly popular, and millions of people annually patronize the "rubber neck" vehicles. These big machines are a mighty convenient way of touring and they help many people to become better informed about the beauties and wonders of the country and the characteristics, and historic and business features of American cities.

These trips of course vary in interest and value. Some depend principally upon the humorous persiflage and poetic outbursts of the "lecturer" who is supposed to keep his party amused and happy, even if they are not seeing much for their money. In others each trip is thoughtfully and carefully planned so as to give the traveller a comprehensive and intelligent idea of the community or district he has paid his money to see.

Such trips can be profitably operated not merely to view great scenic works of nature and large cities, but in many smaller communities where there are notable historic spots or industrial and civic development that will interest the tourists.

The dishes complain that they are having trouble getting washed these warm evenings.

The miners' strike is over, but a lot of people will be minus their winter coal for some time yet.

Mother used to be bothered about the coming out parties but the staying-out parties worry her more nowadays. If they don't, they should.

Tact is a gift that should be prized by its possessor. It has as its basis kindliness and often gives pleasure and happiness where the blunt truth would hurt the feelings unnecessarily and make an enemy.

Three thousand eight hundred Americans are dying today. It is not an unusual thing. It is the regular every day average that go to join the innumerable caravans that have already passed on. If they all met their end at one time and place, it would be heralded the world over and be the chief topic of conversation, but they drop out one at a time, one in a place, and attract no particular attention. Each day 27 are murdered, 41 commit suicide and the balance fall by disease, old age and accident. They have fought the fight, they finish the course and they end a more or less interesting journey still wondering whence they came and whither they are going. A few leave their impress upon the sands of time, still fewer leave imperishable monuments to commemorate their brief sojourn on earth, but the end is the same. Death claims all. All roads lead to it. Not only in America, but throughout the universe.

OPTIMISM CANDIDATES.

(From Maysville Herald.)

The optimism of candidtes is a great optimism.

The campaign is now coming on and the candidates is out hitting the bushes and shaking down the votes and expecting a lot of votes that he wont get.

H naturally takes a rosy outlook on things.

I remember that my father used to tell a story about a certain candidate, who would make his canvass, and if he went to any man's place and got away without getting the dogs set loose on him, he figured that man was "fur him."

I remember that Tom Blair used to tell a story that ran substantially as follows:

The candidate got in his buggy and took another fellow along with him to write down the names of the voters and how they stood. And they made a sort of continuous poll of the people on this particular candidate.

They came to one fellow and this fellow broke loose:

"So you are running for office. You stole my neighbors chickens. You stole my best Duroc Jersey hog in the night and drove it home. You whipped your wife with a club and you beat your boys with a trace chain. You bootlegged corn whiskey, and your robbed two widows and their children out of $9,500. The place for you is in the penitentiary—that's where you ought to be."

The candidate pulled up his reins, clucked to the bay mare he was driving smiled at the man and told him good day and drove on. The fellow who was sitting in the seat by his side got out his pencil and little book to mark down the learnings of the man and the candidate said:

"Mark him down as doubtful."

The first opposition to the committee report came over the question of filling vacancies. The committee provision calls for appointment by the governor from the party with which the member causing the vacancy was affiliated. One amendment proposed was to have a member selected by the county committee and then appointed by the governor; another provided for a party convention to select a member to be appointed by the governor and a third would leave the section the same as in the old constitution, which provides only for a special election in all cases. The amendments were all voted down and the committee recommendation adopted.

Objection was next raised to the shortening of the regular sessions, and amendments providing for ninety and seventy days were proposed for regular sessions and 120 days for revising sessions. These were also defeated after thorough discussion.

A surprise was sprung on the members when an amendment was offered to the provision for biennial sessions, changing the time to four years, and without discussion it was passed by a vote of 34 to 33. However, a vote to reconsider was carried and the question was discussed on both sides. The opposition to the quadrennial session was that it was taking away from the people one of the most potent instruments for the correction of bad legislation and the enacting of laws for which there was a popular demand. On the other side it was contended that there were already too many laws on the statute books and there should be a repealing instead of a revising session; that the people would be better served if no session was held for five or ten years. But the supporters of the biennial session were firm in their conviction that there was no call from the people for any such radical changes, and when the vote was taken the amendment was lost by a vote of 51 to 13.

Indications are that the committee report as a whole will be adopted practically as presented and the few changes made from the present constitution will be approved by the convention.

The report of the Committee on Judiciary, which was withdrawn from general debate, will be taken up section by section for amendment when it next comes before the convention. Many suggestions have been offered by members for amendments that it is believed will meet the principal objections to the committee report. There seems to be a disposition on the part of the committee to make concessions in the interest of harmony and it may introduce amendments on the floor of the convention what will go a long way toward smoothing the troubled waters stirred up by the general debate on the new proposed judicial system, and yet make it a decided improvement over the old system now in use.

Notice has been given to the convention that the Committee on Suffrage and Elections will call up its report for discussion in the committee of the whole as soon as it is through with the consideration of the Legislative Committee report. This report will probably be under discussion practically all of the coming week.

Double liability of stockholders in state banks and trust companies which may hereafter be organized in the state may be imposed by act of the General Assembly if a provision adopted by the Committee on Corporations becomes a part of the constitution. It also provides a way for banks and trust companies now organized to take advantage of the provision if they so desire. The proposed revised section reads as follows:

Section 9. Stockholders. Extent of Liability.—Dues from private corporations shall be secured by such means as may be prescribed by law, but in no case shall any stockholder be individually liable in any amount over and above the amount of stock owned by him or her, provided, however, that the owners of stock in banks and trust companies hereafter formed shall be liable in an additional sum of one hundred per centum of the par value of stock owned by them, which liability shall be several and not joint; it is further provided that any bank or trust company now created shall be privileged, by the unanimous vote of the stockholders, to be liable in an additional sum of one hundred per centum of the par value of the stock owned by them, which liability shall be several and not joint.

The committee has modified section 11, defining corporations, so as to include what is known as "common law trusts" under the corporation laws of the state. In this list the committee includes joint stock companies, associations or business trusts having any powers not possessed by individuals or partnerships; provided, however, the term "business trusts", as used in this constitution, shall include only such voluntary equitable trusts created by a written instrument or declaration of trusts, the beneficial interest under which is divided into transferable certificates of participation or shares.

The provision in section 12 relating to the "long and short haul" and commutation tickets is modified to meet the requirements of the federal transportation act, which now controls all rate matters.

A new section is added to the constitution which is intended to provide rural communities with such facilities for the safe and convenient conduct of business as is afforded those communities in which trust companies are maintained. It provides that:

"Banks heretofore or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state shall have power to act as executors, administrators, curators and trustees under such regulations as may be required by law."

By adopting the sub-committee report on exemptions the Committee on Taxation will propose important changes to the provisions in the old constitution, including the exemption from taxation of bonds or other obligations issued by the state or any political subdivision thereof, and household furniture used as such up to $300. The amended sections read as follows:

Section 6. Property Exempt from Taxation.—The property, real and personal, of the state, counties and other municipal corporations, and all bonds or other obligations hereafter issued by them, and all property used exclusively for the sole and only purpose of improving, embellishing, and preserving the grounds owned by such corporations, or property held in trust for such purposes, shall be exempt from taxation.

Lots in incorporated cities or towns, or within one mile of the limits of any such city or town, to the extent of two acres and lots one mile or more distant from such cities or towns, to the extent of five acres, with the buildings thereon, may be exempted from taxation when the same are used exclusively for religious worship, for schools or for purposes purely charitable; also such property, real or personal, as may be used exclusively for agricultural or horticultural societies, not operated for private profit, and household furniture used as such up to three hundred dollars, may be exempted from taxation. Provided that such exemption shall be only by general law.

Section 7. Other Exemptions Void.—All laws exempting property from taxation, other than the property enumerated in this constitution, shall be void.

The budget proposition, reported by the sub-committee of the Committee on Executive and Ministerial Departments has been passed on favorably by the committee as a whole and will be included in its recommendations to the convention. It will provide, as has been stated before, that the governor shall require statements of expenditures and estimated expenses of the various departments before the convening of the General Assembly and within fifteen days after its convening submit a budget covering all proposed expenditures and estimated revenues of the state government for the ensuing two-year period. The legislature and the judiciary are also required to submit to the governor estimates of their expenses within ten days after the convening of the General Assembly.

In a leading editorial in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat of August 22 the statement is made that of the 329 proposals submitted only three had passed the committee stage. This is a misstatement of facts, though possibly not intentional. The three reports before the convention include eighty proposals that have been considered by the three committees. All the proposals submitted have been given consideration and more than 100 will be included in other reports due to be submitted within a few days.

The convention on Wednesday declined with thanks an invitation to attend the state fair in a body on Thursday or Friday as guests of the fair board and the citizens of Sedalia. With the work now being considered by the convention each day, sitting as the committee of the whole, it was not deemed best to take any time off for such a purpose.

A resolution was introduced Wednesday, to be acted on August 29, to the effect that when the convention adjourns on September 2, it adjourn until Monday, November 12, the week following the general election. The reason given was that the lawyers in the convention would have court duties to perform in September and October. It is not thought that it will meet with general approval by the members of the convention, most of whom wish to push ahead and complete the work, now so well under way.

Night sessions have been held several evenings this week by some of the committees in an effort to complete their reports, several of which are practically ready to submit to the convention.

WITH NODAWAY CO. FARMERS

D. O. Belt.

D. O. Belt, one and three-quarter miles south of the city limits of Maryville, is getting his ground that he sowed in alfalfa last spring ready for a reseeding. He sowed the ground to alfalfa in the spring with oats as a nurse crop. He got a good stand and it was doing fine when the big rain came in July. This washed over young plants so much that a considerable portion of them were killed. In working the ground he hoped to kill out the grass and weeds and at the same time do as little damage to the alfalfa plants as possible. Mr. Belt has 100 pure Poland China pigs and eighteen sows. He keeps eighteen purebred shorthorn cows and has quite a flock of purebred Rhode island chickens.

D. A. Kingery.

D. A. Kingery, at his farm three miles south of Maryville, has just finished cutting a light crop of grass from his young alfalfa. He has a good stand of the new crop. He sowed it this spring, 35 pounds of alfalfa seed to the acre, along with a half bushel of oats to serve as a nurse crop. From four and a half acres he put up fourteen good loads of hay, when he mowed the oats. He says that 35 pounds of alfalfa to the acre is a large amount to sow but that he believes in putting on plenty of seed.

Mr. Kingery purchased the farm last spring and moved from Burlington Junction. He has raised a good crop of corn and expects to purchase a carload of cattle soon to put on his fall pasture and feed out on his corn. He has had little stock on his place during the summer and has allowed the pastures to grow up. There is an abundance of feed on them now.

The fruit crop is a heavy one for Mr. Kingery. He has some especially fine summer queen apples that he says he finds a good market for.

Fred Wyatt.

Fred Wyatt has his grain in the stack at his farm, three miles south of Maryville, and will be ready to thresh in about a week. It has been stacked for several weeks but Mr. Wyatt is waiting for it to come out of the sweat.

Mr. Wyatt has experienced dry weather a number of years which cut his blue grass pasture short. To overcome this condition he sowed a patch of Sudan grass this spring to pasture when the dry weather came. But it did not come and he has had no use for the Sudan. He did not even need it for hay, as he had all the hay he needed besides.

V. E. Jones.

V. E. Jones built at his farm, about four miles south of Maryville, this spring a round brooder house and he and Mrs. Jones hatched off 1,000 chicks, most of which were white leghorns. They had pretty good luck with them and have put about 200 on the market. One of the objects of making the brooder house round was that of preventing the chicks from crowding into the corners, as they sometimes do if the heat is not just as it should be.

Mr. Jones is expecting to "hog down" a patch of his corn crop. He has forty spring shoats and says that he believes the corn is hard enough that it would do no harm to turn them in the field. Fourteen sows at the farm are to furrow this fall.

G. W. Neal.

G. W. Neal believes strongly in the Duroc Jersey hogs and said yesterday afternoon that it is his belief that they are the best hogs to mother their pigs. He has five sows and some very fine pigs. He has one pig which is five months old which will weigh right around 125 pounds.

J. S. Hanna.

J. S. Hanna was busy yesterday cutting the second crop of clover from a ten acre field. He says that the first crop made him about a three-ton yield to the acre.

W. E. Hinton.

W. E. Hinton, east of Pickering, believes in refreshments with his work. Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock he drove his team under the shade of a tree south of his place where he had been setting fence posts and carved a big juicy watermelon which he had been keeping all afternoon in a bucket of cool water. Mr. Hinton has about 300 hills of watermelon.

He was setting posts on his bottom farm, where the high waters washed the fence down this spring. He says that hedge posts are all that will be planted on his place in the future. Mr. Hinton was working by a field of corn which looked as healthy as could be. He said that the entire field was buried this spring by water and that when the waters went back into the creek banks the corn was flat on the ground. In a little while it straightened up some, but remained about half bent down until after it tasseled out and then it straightened up and now it would never be thought that it was ever flat on the ground.

When the fence posts are placed and the woven wire tacked on, Mr. Hinton will turn 125 head of spring pigs into the field. He has seventeen Duroc Jersey sows.

W. C. Runnels.

W. C. Runnels, east of Pickering, was busy yesterday afternoon plowing under a twelve-acre patch of red clover to kill out a crop of buck horn which had gotten started in the field. He said that he was going to sow it in wheat now and as soon as the wheat was off of the field in the fall he was going to plant it in clover and then turn the clover under. He figures that this will keep in control the buck horn and will do his field a lot of good in the way of fertilization.

George Swaney Back From Fair.

George Swaney of Pickering returned Thursday from Sedalia, where he attended the State Fair. He says that they have as good a display of hogs, cattle and mules as he ever saw. He reports that the Nodaway County agricultural films are having a good showing and that the people will do well to contribute to the donations for the support of the films. He says the boys couldn't have done anything which would have helped the county more.

Sexton at Oak Hill Cemetery Had Had A Busy Season

To run a lawn mower enough to cut 125 acres of ground and to get down between 4,000 and 5,000 times to pull the grass out from about tomb stones or to cut it witha cycle is the task that J. C. Chappell, sexton at the Oak Hill Cemetery, has had to go through with this summer.

Between eight and ten acres of the cemetery is mowed with the lawn mower and it will by the end of the summer be gone over thirteen or fourteen times, Mr. Chappell says. There are approximately 1,000 stones in the cemetery and it will be necessary by the end of the season to have cut the grass close with a cycle or to have pulled it out by hand four or five times.

Mr. Chappell has been taking care of the cemetery for six years and says that he has had more work to do to keep the the grass down this year than he has ever had in any one season. The rains have made it grow rapidly.

In addition to the rapid growth of the grass there has been considerable work in filling up graves that settled. The rains soaking the ground have caused an unusually large number of the grave mounds to settle. In such cases the grave is filled up again and the mound sown with grass seed.

The wet weather has also caused some of the tomb stones to settle and get out of line because the ground on which they were standing gave way.

About four acres of the cemetery ground is mowed with a mowing machine and the remaining portion of the twenty acres is in corn.

A woman from Kansas, who visits the cemetery here every year, said the other day that it is more beautiful this year than she has ever seen it before.
